ROAD PAVING in South Bay continued through afternoon rains this week.

Road paving started in SB

SOUTH BAY The repaving of NW 1st St. and NW 9th St. began last Tuesday marking a 95 percent completion of a nearly $250,000 federally funded project.

South Bay City Manager, Lomax Harrelle, said the funding for NW 1st St. came primarily from the Housing and Urban Development program administered by Palm Beach County.

NW 9th St. was funded through the Jobs Bill program set up by the Reagan administration to provide work for those unemployed for more than 15 weeks, Harrelle said.

"We were originally funded $100,000 and we asked for additional funds otherwise we would have had to leave one-third of the street in its present state which was very deteriorated," the city manager said. "It didn't have sidewalks, drainage curb and a gutter. People had to walk in the street."

Harrelle said the community development program had applied for funding for next year so they can begin work on three other city streets.

Eden Construction of South Bay was hired to do the road work and Barker, OSHA, Anderson Inc. of North Palm Beach were hired as the planning engineers.

Community helps woman with new house

BELLE GLADE After fire destroyed the little house on S.W. 4th St. last year, Martha Carter was left without a home, but through the help of friends, the Citizens Planning Advisory Committee and the Planning and Community Development Department, a new house was built.

Last Tuesday, July 31, members of the assisting groups gathered to officially dedicate the relocation house to Mrs. Carter.

"I think it is very nice. It was really a surprise because I didn't know what it would be like," Mrs. Carter said.

Mrs. Carter said she had been trying to get assistance for a new home even before her old one had burned down.

The old house was already in a deteriorated condition, but Mrs. Carter, a former field worker, was no longer employed and could not afford to renovate her home.

The house caught fire when she was filling a tank of a kerosene stove causing an explosion that left the house leaning 6 feet away from her neighbors home.

City workers had to tie a wire around the building to pull it in the other direction and keep it from falling on the house next door.

Finally she received help and the city demolished the old structure. It took more than a year to complete the new house.

Initially Mrs. Carter was going to be set up in an apartment, but now with the new house she will remain a property owner.

City, officers cleared in 1982 shooting incident

PAHOKEE A Circuit Court jury ended two and a half years of legal battling last Saturday when they decided not to award the family of Nathaniel Bash $1.2 million in damages from a suit filed against Pahokee and Palm Beach County law enforcement officers.

The family was suing Palm Beach County Sheriff Richard P. Willie, the Sheriff's Deputy Michael Stull, the city of Pahokee and Police Chief Carmen Salvatore for negligence and violating Bash's civil rights.

Bash, 39, was shot and killed on March 5, 1982 by Deputy Stull after threatening police with an ax and a shotgun.

The jury deliberated for one and a half hours clearing all officers of any wrong doing.

"This proved what we had been saying for the past two and a half years - we handled it right," Stull said.

"I'm sorry that it happened the way it did, but it came down to my life and some of the civilians in the area and I had to make that decision (to shoot). Right now I'm on two weeks vacation and I'm going to relax and spend some time with my family and try to make up for two and a half years," he said.

Altman seeks new term

BELLE GLADE Being fair and listening to residents are the keys which Belle Glade Mayor Thomas Altman says he stressed throughout his ten years as a city commissioner.

Altman qualified, Friday, July 27, to make a reelection bid.

Altman, 32, of 809 N.E. 22nd St., will put his commission experience, including six years as mayor, on the line in the municipal election, Tuesday, Sept. 11. The qualification period began Friday, July 27 and will run through Friday, Aug. 10.

"I still feel like I can make a contribution to the city government," Altman said, in explaining his reasons for qualifying.

Among the major issues for the city over the next two years, Altman said, include the development of the marina. "That should be a very exciting development," he said.

Recodification of the city code will be a tedious task, but should also be very rewarding, Altman said. The growth and maturation of the recently formed economic development committee should also prove to be a valuable asset, he said.

Altman, a consultant with E. F. Hutton, said he is proud of the commission's accomplishments over the years. One aspect which makes Belle Glade's city commission special, he said, is the commissioner's ability to constructively resolve differences.

"Sure we disagree on

things, but our difference have always been worked out in a constructive manner," he said.

Goodlett qualifies for election

GOODLETT

BELLE GLADE Belle Glade Commissioner Charles Goodlett points to his 30 years as city police chief and four years on the commission as a basis for qualifying for a reelection campaign, Friday, July 27.

"Due to my past experience with the city I do feel like I have something to offer," Goodlett said, Friday as he qualified for the election, Tuesday, Sept. 11.

Goodlett, 66, of 1824 W. Canal St. S., said his last four years on the commission have been a rewarding experience which he hopes to continue. "The commission has been an outstanding group to work with," he said.

Issues of importance facing the city include the city's sewer and water systems. Goodlett said, noting that the city had made significant progress in improving the utility services over the past few years. Improving the condition of city streets is also a top priority, Goodlett said.

The marina development project is one about which Goodlett says he is excited. One of the key people involved in the initial construction of the marina as a member of the Port Committee, Goodlett is also a member of the recently formed marina development committee. Goodlett is the only remaining member of the original Port Committee, which he said first formed in the mid 1950's.

USSC gets the bad news

United States Sugar Corp. got the bad news last week. Accountants reported a fiscal third quarter loss of $4.6 million, compared with a profit in the same quarter a year earlier.

Third quarter profits for the previous year totaled $10 million. High interest costs, an unfavorable market and weather conditions for vegetable operations, and a large accrued contribution the employee stock ownership plan (ESOP) were cited as contributing to the loss.

The company absorbed a large loss in its vegetable operation, while sugar production fell from 434,668 in 1983-1984 from 476,296 tons a year earlier.

Wodraska named Water Management director

John R. (Woody) Wodraska is the new executive director of the South Florida Water Management District. His appointment came at the District's Governing Board meeting, Friday, July 13, following a lengthy and intense search process. His appointment is effective immediately.

Board member John Flanagan of West Palm Beach, chairman of the search committee, noted search efforts had generated 431 applicants, of which 55 were determined to be qualified. The board's search committee interviewed the seven top candidates and narrowed the field to three individuals. Those three were interviewed by the full Board at its regular monthly meeting today. Following a short break, the Board voted unanimously to appoint Wodraska, who has been acting director since April.

Board members expressed their pleasure at the search process which had brought forth so many highly qualified candidates.

"The outcome of the process has been to firmly establish Woody as the most outstanding individual for the job," said Stanley Hole,

Board Chairman. "We, as the Board, have had confidence in Woody in the past, but this effort has given us an opportunity to measure him in terms of top natural resource managers from throughout the country. It became evident through the written and verbal steps of this search that he was, indeed, the best choice for this position."

Wodraska moves from the job of acting executive director of the district. He was given that title last April, when the previous director, Jack Maloy, left the agency. Prior to April, Wodraska was deputy executive director, serving as chief operating officer of the district since 1978. Wodraska has been with the District since 1972, holding a number of positions in planning, administration, and political liaison roles before his appointment as deputy director.

Details of Wodraska's salary and benefit contract will be worked out with a specially appointed committee of the Governing Board. That contract is expected to be brought to the full Board in August.

6 week search produces bad check arrest

BELLE GLADE - A six-week long search for a passing bad check in the Glades culminated Thursday, July 26, with the arrest of a Pahokee man.

Palm Beach Sheriff's Detective Steve Haller, of the Glades Sub Station, said Emmanuel Safo, of Okeechobee, turned himself in to Dade County officials Thursday and was then transferred to the Sub Station. Safo was charged with grand theft and uttering a forgery and is being held in county jail under a $25,000 bond. Haller said Safo allegedly passed at least two bad checks at the Pahokee Foodway back in March. Each check was written for $389.10. A warrant for Safo's arrest was issued June 14.

However, Haller said bad checks are still unaccounted for, written from a closed account in the name of B&S Enterprises, Okeechobee. More arrests will be made, he promised.

Apparently someone stole a book of checks from B&S and is selling the checks at a profit, Haller said. Detectives are looking for the seller, but so far report no leads.

Haller said the number of bad checks written curtailed drastically when the story was first reported by the media back in late May.

Annual South Bay Police Day slated

SOUTH BAY Glades residents will be able to meet local law enforcement agencies at Taners Park this Saturday, Aug. 4, during the first annual "South Bay Police Day."

"This will be a good opportunity for the public to meet some of the officers around the Glades and see the type of equipment they have on hand," said Sgt. Al Gross, a South Bay police officer and organizer of the event.

The program will also feature a canine show, a CrimeWatch movie, bicycle registration for South Bay children and the South Bay Sheriff's Department's talking Volkswagen.

Gross said there has never been a program where residents of the surrounding Glades communities could get together to meet officers from all the law enforcement departments at one time.

"We (South Bay Police Department) just thought it would be a good idea for citizens to meet officers of the different departments around the Glades," Gross said. "We want to get the public more interested and aware of their police department."

"South Bay Police Day" will begin at 11 a.m. and continue throughout the day until 3 p.m.

BELLE GLADE - The Glades Disaster Committee in cooperation with the Palm Beach County Red Cross will be offering a four-hour training session for shelter managers this Saturday, Aug. 3 at the Florida Federal Savings and Loan Association in Pahokee.

Gladys Ganzy said the training is necessary if any of the shelters are expected to receive support from the Red Cross.

"The Red Cross will not be responsible for the shelters already set up in churches and schools in the area without a trained shelter manager and a nurse," she said.

She said the committee is hoping the training session will attract at least 35 people, adding that "if the demand is such where we need to set up other training sessions, well we will do that too."

The purpose, she said, is to have the required trained staff so the committee can be able to work with the Red Cross.

"The Red Cross has money, but they will not put money in unless the shelters have a Red Cross trained staff," she said.

Ganzy said the group hopes to eventually organize a permanent committee to coordinate the activities of shelter programs

New law releases FmHA housing funds

A bill signed by President Reagan July 2 enhances the use of funds for the single family housing program operated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration, Mitchell N. Drew, FmHA Area Director, said today. No additional funds are involved.

The new law clears up the division of loan funds that must be allotted to "very low-income applicants and to those in the next higher bracket, low-income."

"The earlier congressional requirement that FmHA housing loans must be made so that 40 percent were constantly going to very-low-income people has been replaced so that now up to 40 percent of the funds available will be used for very-low-income families," Mitchell N. Drew said.

"This means that loan applications from both low and very-low income rural applicants can be processed at the same time without regard to some arbitrary relationship between the two groups."

The new law divides available loan funds into two amounts, up to 40 percent for the very-low-income and the remainder for low-income borrowers.

"That will revive our program substantially," Mitchell N. Drew said.

"We will now be able to process applications for both very-low and low-income people."

Very low-income is defined as not more than 50 percent of an area's median income. The low-income ceiling is 80 percent of the same income base.

Planning and Community Development Department addressed the group attending the dedication, and thanked the many who contributed to the project.

"We only had $15,000 to work with, and it is almost impossible to build a home with that kind of money," he said. "We had to rely on community contractors. We can be gratified for the help of Simon Mosely. (Mosely and Son Construction—who built the home.)"

Gladys G. Ganzy organized the dedication, and also a tour of the Neighborhood Strategy Areas (NSA) where the Planning and Community Development program plans to continue renovation projects.

Ganzy said the areas are under code enforcement, so home owners will have to make necessary improvements to meet code standards or else apply for assistance.

The program will also focus on refurbishing rooming houses into efficiencies and apartments, putting in sidewalks and building a playground.

Glades coverage discussed with television station

BELLE GLADE—Community leaders discussed coastal media coverage of local concerns in a breakfast conference sponsored by Channel 12 WPEC television station, Tuesday, July 24.

WPEC Public Affairs Director June Aiken told the 20 city residents gathered at the Belle Glade Motor Inn that the television station needed input from the Glades in order to improve its coverage of the area. "This is your chance to talk back to your television," she said.

Delton Yancey, director of the Florida Sugar Cane League, suggested the television station sponsor a special show featuring a panel discussion among several Glades area leaders. "We feel there is a lack of an understanding of our problems in the Glades," he said.

The Glades could also be the source for several editorials, Yancey said, pointing in particular at how the 1985 State Farm Bill could affect the area.

Robert C. Wiegand, WPEC program manager, said the station has editorially supported the Glades in the past, specifically urging for the four-laning of State Road 80. The station will continue to push for the highway's four-laning and is also interested in other editorial ideas, he added.

Dan Bythwood, Belle Glade city commissioner, urged the station to focus attention on the needs of area youth. "Young people out here need a lot more culture and a lot more education," he said.

Katrina Warren, of Planned Parenthood, said teenage pregnancy is a major problem of the Glades which is often overlooked. Pregnancies also lead directly into other major concerns including quality of education and lack of affordable medical care, she said.

Station officials said they would use the input gained at Tuesday's conference and other similar meetings in other communities to compile a list of top county concerns. A similar list of the areas major concerns for last year was headed off by crime and affordable housing. Other top county concerns, according to the list, include education, transportation, apathy, lack of activities, environment, growth, drug abuse and economy.

WPEC Program Director Tom Moody said the input gained through community conferences does affect the station's programming and practices. "We try and be very receptive to the comments of the general public," he said.

Moody urged area residents to contact the station. "The Glades is just as much a part of our coverage area as anywhere else," he said.

Belle Glade Mayor Thomas Altman, Yalfecey and others commended the television for their willingness to cover the area. "You give us balanced coverage and that's all we can ask for," Altman said.

D. Bill Mathis, Belle Glade chief of police, also thanked station personnel for their cooperation in putting together the Crime Stoppers program. Belle Glade Sgt. Dan Crist noted that the station's Crime Stoppers is the third most effective public service of its kind nationwide.

Aiken reported that within the next 10 days, a Glades area phone number will be added to the Crime Stoppers program. Currently, only a West Palm Beach number is available.

City commission switches insurance companies

BELLE GLADE—Responding to proposed rate hikes, Belle Glade city commissioners voted unanimously to switch the city's employee health program to New England Mutual.

The city's insurance agent, Hub Spooner, said the new company's annual premium rates were about $36,000 less than the rates forecast by Washington National, the company which has covered the city for the past seven years. New England Mutual's annual premium will be $384,643.

The new coverage becomes effective Tuesday, Aug. 1. Employee rates will be about $87 monthly, while family coverage will be about $137 monthly.

Spooner said employees would be paying about $4.60 a week more over the current rates. No increase is good, he said, but New England Mutual's program is the best possible.

One big advantage of the new program is the rate guarantee, Spooner said. New England Mutual guarantees their rates for 16 months, while Washington Mutual offers only a six-month guarantee.

Spooner told commissioners that Washington National had asked for more than 100 percent premium increase. "I would like to keep the plan we've got folks, but I just don't think we can afford it," he said.

City employees had an unusually high amount of insurance claims last year, which brought on the rate hike, Spooner said. In an effort to keep claims down, New England Mutual will be responsible for only 80 percent of the first $5,000 of hospital bills. Previously, the insurance company had been responsible for the entire $5,000.

Other structure changes which could also aid the city will be investigated, Spooner said.

Mayor Thomas Altman said he would like to see city employees surveyed to see what percentage do not take advantage of the family insurance opportunities through the city. The survey would hopefully determine whether high premium rates were keeping employees from utilizing insurance opportunities, Altman said. "It really worries me that we have that type of situation."

In other city business:

Commissioners approved an agreement with the Florida Department of Transportation, which according to City Manager W.L. "Tom" Strang, is the first step toward opening the door for more airport funds.

If consent is granted, the city could eventually reach an agreement with the Federal Aviation Administration which could save the city 45 cents on the dollar on airport projects, Strang said. City officials should be able to determine whether such a deal is possible within six months, he said.

Commissioner Dan Bythwood urged city residents and landlords to keep their yards cut. He said he had received several complaints about snakes crawling out of high grass into apartments and homes. According to city ordinances, grass must be no longer than 18 inches.

Planning and Community Development Director Remar Harvin said the city will not cut grass on private property unless requested even if the grass exceeds 18 inches. Residents who request the cutting will be billed for the service. Harvin noted that landowners who do not maintain their lawns up to city standards are subject to penalties from the city's Code Enforcement Board.

Commissioners voiced their tentative agreement to a rough draft of an ordinance which would prohibit the storage, repair and dismantling of junk vehicles on public or private property. Attorney John Baker said he will prepare a finalized version of the ordinance.

The city will purchase two traffic signal controls and one signal head from Transit Corp., of Tallahassee, Police Chief D. Bill Mathis said these purchases, along with equipment to be listed in next year's budget, will give the city three more traffic lights. He said sometime next fall the city should have lights at the corners of West Avenue A and Fifth Street, Southwest Fifth Street and West Canal Street, South B, and Northwest Fourth Street and Avenue H.

Commissioners also voted to purchase 38 gas masks for the police department from Jones Equipment Co. at a price of $2,850.

The First Baptist Church will be refunded about $842 in building permits. The city commissioners the city usually refunded permit fees for nonprofit organizations. The church is in the midst of constructing a new facility, adjacent to the present building on the corner of Main Street and Northwest Avenue B.

Letter to the editor

Dear Citizens of Pahokee:

We write in response to recent complaints lodged against our Shop & Go Store as a "gathering-place" for noisy, young loiterers who disturb our neighbors. We share your concerns because these young people also make it difficult for us to serve you, our customers, in our usual efficient manner. We want you to know that we are taking steps to resolve this problem, and have issued special instructions to our employees.

We feel that it should be noted ours is not the only business establishment in that location which attracts these young people. We have appealed to local law enforcement officers to assist us in removing the loiterers from our store property. We also appeal to the citizens of the area, particularly the parents of these young people, to assure that their youngsters learn to respect other citizens' rights and property.

Shop & Go is a family-owned business which is and always has been dedicated to the highest ideals of good citizenship and ethical business activity. We support the community through the taxes and license fees we pay and through the products and services we offer in our stores, as well as the jobs we provide.

We vigorously support and obey the laws regarding the sale of alcoholic beverages and tobacco products to minors. We have removed all "sophisticate" type magazine publications from our shelves, and have discontinued the sale of rolling papers in our stores. We actively encourage all our customers to register and vote in all local, state and federal elections. We strive constantly to maintain clean, attractive, well-stocked and conveniently-arranged stores that will be valued additions to any business community.

We depend on the goodwill of our neighbors and our customers and we want to assure you that we will do all in our power to preserve that goodwill.

As Told By FLOYD WILDER
To RUTH S. IRVIN

Harold Clark found me as he was trying to salvage things from his family's home. He told me some of my folks were down near the post office and had been looking for me. Raymond, who had been lodged near the bridge, yelled at me about that time, and not being able to realize what had happened I asked him, "What are you doing here?"

I climbed up on the roadway and crossed the bridge. The post office was narrowly separated from the locks, and I saw the barge still in the locks. I learned later that most of the people in South Bay had survived by getting on the barge. Ivan Van Horn was given credit for saving the lives of the 211 people on board which were most of the people in the South Bay area. He stayed outside on the deck all night, unprotected from the wind and the rain, and kept the bilge pump running while others bailed water, and the barge stayed afloat.

They took me to the post office which was still standing, and Mrs. Hartline, who lived there, gave me some soup. She also gave me some of Eric's clothes which I remember were too big for me. I had gone through the hurricane unhurt, barefoot, in overalls and shirt and I lost only one button. I saw Melvin, Raymond, Hilda, Clarence, and Lillian Thigpen who were there ahead of me.

My dad's body was the first body recovered after the hurricane passed. Ivan Van Horn found him on the west side of the canal close to the bridge. His skull had been crushed.

The bodies of Philip Thigpen or "Man" my friend, and his sister Pearl were on the west edge of the canal. They must have been drowned. Raymond was carried to the bridge and hung on to it until just before daybreak.

Melvin was able to hang on to a small building back of the lumber yard on the west side of the canal. Old Mr. Hutchinson had a flashlight and had started to our house in the early past of the storm. He lived near Mrs. Thigpen, and he had a special interest in looking out for her and her children. He had been unable to reach our house and had taken refuge in the small building before Melvin landed there.

It was nothing short of a miracle that Melvin was able to grab Hilda as she came tumbling along in the dark waters behind him. The three of them were able to hang on to this building through the storm. I distinctly remember that I had seen a light blink several times as I was thrown about in the black night and the tumbling waters. It might have been Mr. Hutchinson's flashlight.

In addition to the loss of our father, Laura was drowned as was Hilda and three children. Mrs. Thigpen, Pearl, and Philip were drowned. Eight of the fourteen who took refuge in our house were lost, and six of us survived. I was ten years old.

We left South Bay the second day after the storm on a truck belonging to the Huffman Construction Company. We went to Belle Glade and on to West Palm Beach where we were taken to a hotel on the lake.

Mildred had gone through the storm in the George Washington Hotel where she was working at that time. She was frantic with worry, and she was looking for us. She found me out on the sidewalk trying to hula a coconut.

The Red Cross and other organizations put up a tent city in West Palm Beach for the refugees of the storm. We stayed there several months, were able to get groceries and other necessities, and the iceman delivered ice to us. Melvin had gone back to the Glades to help with the cleanup.

We were finally able to return to South Bay, and we lived all winter in two army tents put up by the Salvation Army or the Red Cross. The Red Cross built a house for us on two lots which Melvin owned across the street from the house we live in today.

Mildred came back and stayed for several years around South Bay. Vernie and Willie Beas, who lost their mother, father, and brother, Virgil, at Sebring Farm in the hurricane lived with their half brother William Rawls. They were friends of mine.

Once Vernie, Willie, Johnny and Billy Gardner, Bernard Workman and I were swimming and playing alligator tag by the spillway at the locks down by the bridge. Vernie jumped in the water, hit Bernard with his hip, and knocked him out. Bernard came up bobbing. I grabbed him and just as we went through the spillway I managed to grab hold of an iron brace and bring us out of the swift water. The other boys grabbed us and pulled us out of danger. Bernard revived, but he did not swim any more that day. He went home.

Antique car show planned

Cars from a time when slicked back hair and poodle skirts were in style will converge on Clewiston in August.

It's not a greater convention, but rather the First Annual Early Irons Car Club's Car Show.

It begins at 8 a.m. in the fresh air of Sugarland Park and will continue into the afternoon. The judging of the show pieces will begin at 3 p.m. with people's choice awards. Proceeds from the show will be donated to the Association for Retarded Citizens - Hendry and Glades.

"We're expecting cars and clubs from both coasts," Tom Smith, president of the Early Irons Car Club said today. "We already have confirmation from several of the East Coast clubs and the response from other enthusiasts has been more than we have expected."

Smith extended an invitation to anyone who enjoys the vintage autos, particularly from 1969 and earlier to join with them at the First Annual Early Irons Car Club Show on August 26.

He added, however, "the show is not limited to those autos of the 1969 year and earlier...in fact, we'd like to have anyone who would like to show off their wheels to come and join us. Entry fee for participants is $5 and each will receive a dash plaque to show their participation. Spectators will be admitted free and asked to do the judging for the people's choice awards."

Hurricane—

The lake was also our playground. Mr. friends and I waded, swam, and played tag up and down the south shore. We would go as far west as Lake Harbor and wade and swim from there to Ritta Island and all the way around it.

C.E. Thomas lived in his old house on the east side of the island, and he farmed his land there. He had lost all of his family in the '28 hurricane except his son, Mutt. Mutt was then living with an aunt up in north Florida and going to school. Mr. Thomas wanted me and my friends to stay and eat with him, and we almost always did. He seemed so lonesome there, living alone and farming his land.

The commercial fishermen would be out fishing in their seine boats, and they were always glad to see us when we went out on the lake. They would be insulted if we did not stop and eat with them. We would watch them seine the fish with their great nets.

We would watch the big bass jump in the nets and see the nets filled with cat and bream. The men always insisted that we pick our fish we wanted to take home with us.

My friends and I had custard apple wars, fighting each other with custard apples. One has to search today to find custard apple trees that were once so plentiful. Most of those that were not grubbed up by the farmers were cleared out by the great storm.

We fished off the old dock and using the tails of grasshoppers for bait. We could pick off a bream almost every time by just putting our line down.

I was helping my brother-in-law, Nello Greer, over on Torrey Island sometime after the hurricane. We plowed up human bones. It was not uncommon for farmers to find skulls in the fields after the storm.

As time went on I grew up. I met Lillie at Milton Crouch's packing house, now South Bay Growers, where we were both working. Her father, Bennett Hobbs, moved with his family to South Bay in 1935.

Lillie and I were married on August 8, 1937. We first lived in a house that we rented from Russell Fisher several blocks from our present home. Melvin bought a house that a Mr. Alys had built. And we rented that house from him for several years.

A Mr. Hawkins built the two-story house that we have lived in ever since. He wanted to leave the area, and he sold the house to us for $3,000. We moved in three weeks before our daughter, Linda, was born. There are four upstairs bedrooms in the house. Mr. Hawkins said that he wanted to see us fill them up. We did just that.

Linda was born on August 8, 1943. Sharon was born December 5, 1945. Theresa on September 22, 1948, and Floyd Oliver Jr. (Buddy) was born on February 9, 1951.

This story was written so that today's younger generation might have a record of how life was in the Glades in the early days. The Wilder family can be counted among the pioneers on the south of Lake Okeechobee.

GLADES AREA ARC STUDENTS work with Gloria Simpson, left, and other kitchen employees as part of a kitchen skills training program.

ARC students prepare for the job market

BELLE GLADE—Part-time jobs are the goal of students participating in the kitchen skills training program at the Glades Area Association of Retarded Citizens.

Under the supervision of Jacqueline Howard and Gloria Simpson, six students have been working in the kitchen at the center, located at 601 W. Canal St. N., since April. The students work in three basic areas: preparing meals, setting tables and cleaning up.

Dorothea Carroll, ARC executive director, said the purpose of the training is to teach independent living skills. "I'm hoping two of the clients by November will have learned enough to get unsubsidized part-time work, at least part-time," she said.

Five days a week, the six students watch Simpson and Howard prepare lunch meals at the center and help where they can. The students have learned to open cans, operate the dish washer, serve meals, mop, sweep and prepare some foods. Howard and Simpson evaluate the students' performances after each meal, showing them where they could improve.

Simpson said the students are learning surprisingly quick. "Even in food preparation, they watch everything I do and take an interest," she said.

Carroll noted one of the advantages of the training program was that the students were learning to cook their own meals and more or less take care of themselves. Simpson agreed, saying, "One of the girls told me the other day that at home she had made herself her very first dish, mashed potatoes."

Howard said the kids really enjoy the training. In fact, since the training program has begun the center's overall attendance has improved, she said. The teachers also get a big kick out of the training program.

"They really help us out," Howard said. "I thought at first that I wouldn't have enough patience to deal with it...but now I've found I really enjoy it."

Carroll said the training program also includes lessons on manners and social skills. Parents are invited to eat with their children and help them work on table manners.

In addition to the kitchen skills training class, the ARC has several other programs for its clients. A group of students runs the aluminum recycling center at 333 W. Canal St. N. Carroll urged area residents to bring their cans to the aluminum plant on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9-12 a.m., or Saturday's from 8-12 a.m.

The ARC also runs a lawn maintenance program and cuts and maintains area yards. Several ARC clients are also currently enrolled in a horticulture class which is being held at the West Technical Education Center, in Belle Glade.

Class slated for prospective citizens

A course for Glades-area residents interested in becoming United States citizens will begin very soon courtesy of the Community School.

The course will last for a minimum of four weeks with two class meetings per week.

Course participants will study a citizenship preparation brochure provided by the Daughters of the American Revolution, complete the actual applications for citizenship, and study questions that could be asked of an applicant at the citizenship hearing.

A bilingual person (English-Spanish) will be the instructor. There is no charge for the course.

Active, comfortable health care promised

By TOM KISKEN

PAHOKEE—The Glades Health Care Center will be a comfortable, active home for senior citizens, says Vern Holmes, administrator of the new nursing home, located at 230 South Barfield Highway.

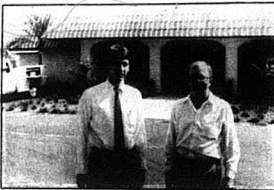

Holmes said hopefully about 30 patients currently on a waiting list will move into the 120-bed facility in mid August, depending on state inspections. The facility should be filled to capacity in about three to four months after opening, he added.

Once the facility is open, Holmes and staff will begin work to make the new residents feel right at home. "We want to provide the best nursing home facility in the Glades," he said.

Admitting that many people have the misconception that a nursing is just a storage place for displaced senior citizens, Holmes said activity will be a key word at the Glades Health Care Center.

"A nursing home is a place of activity a lot of good things happen here," Holmes said. "If you don't believe that hang around here at Christmas or New Years—things start getting a little wild."

Ed Meszaros, activities director, said his goal is to keep a constant line of activities scheduled for those patients who want to participate. "No one is forced to do anything, but we do encourage the residents to take part," he said.

VERN HOLMES, RAY HATTON II

Every day two major activities and two minor activities will be available for the residents. Major activities will include birthday parties, bingo, trips and church services. Minor activities will include such things as arts and crafts and visiting.

The nursing home also includes housekeeping, dietary, laundry, and cosmetology facilities.

Holmes said that while the staff will be able to help residents as much as needed, independence will be encouraged. Residents will also be given opportunities for input on all aspects of life at the nursing home, including menus and activities. "The best people to assess us are the residents, they'll let us know how things are going," he said.

The community support for the new home so far has been great, Holmes said. Everyone seems real anxious to see the facility open up, he said. "The people have been real helpful and we're going to need that continued cooperation and participation with our programs."

Ray Hatton II, of Hatton Properties which owns the center, said a nursing home has been a long time need for Pahokee. In fact, a study showed that the area actually had a need for a 170-bed facility, he said.

The nursing home has been in the works for 10 years, Hatton said. The entire project, including an adjacent 40-unit apartment complex, cost about $4.2 million.

The facility includes two wings, each which can house up to 60 patients. Only four of the rooms are private, single bed rooms. Holmes commented that the semi-private rooms encourage residents to meet each other and make friends.

Each room is equipped with a nurse's call button. Bathroom's are equipped with emergency calls which will alert nurses of any accidents or other difficulties.

Each wing is equipped with a whirlpool. Holmes said the pool is used mostly to stimulate circulation of the blood.

Holmes said one part of the facility of which he is particularly proud is the dietary program and the extensive kitchen. The program will enable the patients to be served food that is both enjoyable and healthy, he said.

So far about 25 employees have been hired, all but two right from the Pahokee area. Holmes said the center will need about 80 full time employees and some part time help at full capacity. Virtually all employees will be hired from the local area, he continued.

Holmes said he had hoped to have the nursing home ready for opening in July. However, state inspections and surveys set the timetable back a bit. Noting that an October opening was forecast when construction first began, Holmes said plans are still ahead of schedule.

Hatton Properties contracted Holmes to serve as an administrator through Waverly Management Co., of Jackson, Mississippi. Holmes previously worked as assistant administrator at a 180-bed nursing home in Daytona Beach.

Dr. R. L. Hatton, of Pahokee, will serve as medical director for the nursing home.

Earth shakes in South Bay

SOUTH BAY—Earth shaking news broke last week in South Bay as two local residents, from opposite sides of town, reported that something noiseless was causing their house to shudder.

"We don't know if it was God's work or man's," said Mary Williams, of 245 S.W. 10th Avenue. Williams said that between 4-5 p.m. on Monday, July 23 and Wednesday, July 25, something caused the ground to shift in her neighborhood. "I live in a four unit building and the whole building rocked from side to side."

The shakes, Williams said, were the talk of the entire neighborhood. "The shakes were really know what to do, except report it to the police, she said.

Another South Bay resident, Mrs. Floyd Reeves, of 325 S.E. 4th Ave., reported the same shaking on the same days at the same time. Reeves said her house didn't shake much, but she did feel the ground trembling.

A neighbor of Reeves, Louise Lane said she thought crews were dynamite blasting just south of town off US 27. Lane said she saw the blasting equipment and the dynamite boxes laying off the road.

Chief Ray Humston said he had no idea what is causing the shakes. Police have been unable to locate anyone blasting dynamite in the area. Humston said the Belle Glade Police Department and the Sheriff's Glades Sub Station have been contacted and both reported no blasting in the area.

At first, Humston said, he doubted the validity of the calls. However, the fact that two people, from opposite sides of the town, who never met each other both report the same shakes has Humston thinking twice. He said he would contact the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to see if they could explain the incidents.

Williams said the first time the ground shook, Monday, July 23, it was followed by thunder. However, on Wednesday, July 27, there was no sound. "All we can tell you is that the house shook," she said.

For a limited time, we have over $290 million dollars available for auto loans. Credit requirements are more liberal than what you've probably experienced. Terms are longer, and now down payment is necessary. Interest is well BELOW PRIME LENDING. RATES CHARGED BY MOST BANKS.
